To the Family of Andrew: I did not have the pleasure of knowing Andrew; however, I was a law school class mate of his Dad, Arthur, and judging by Andrew's smile, I can only imagine that he was a lot like his Dad, which would mean he was a pretty special person. Having three sons of my own, I can only imagine the pain and suffering of losing Andrew. My deepest condolences to all. Kindest regards, Leonard

I met Andrew once, but have known his father, Art for over 40 years. We can only express our deepest sympathy on the loss of your son. Losing a loved one at such a young age is a difficult burden. But please know our warmest wishes go out to you during this difficult time, with hope for comfort in the fond remembrances of his time with all of you. Sincerely, Nick and Sabine Gold.

Dear Art, Your loving obituary for Andrew contained so many details about his skills, temperament, and gracious kindnesses for others -- I wish I had known him. You introduced us as we were all leaving the law school after an event a few years ago. He immediately impressed me with his beautiful smile and hearty greeting. Much too brief! How can you not be devastated to have lost him at such a young age. I am so terribly sorry. You yourself are such a kind, intelligent, and thoughtful man, it's not surprising that Andrew developed and epitomized those characteristics. He was fortunate to have you as his father and model, and his children will continue to enjoy and cherish their time with you. I can only imagine how heartbreaking it is to lose a child. Your loving memories and the children's hugs and kisses I hope will bring you some comfort. With sincere condolences, Kathryn

Always appreciated your genuine energy brother. You were never too busy slinging sales to take time to chat about life and the outdoors. Much love brother Andrew.

I had a pleasure of coaching Andrew as part of the Collegiate All Star Pacific Coast Grizzlie squad and wishes to pass on my condolences on Andrews untimely passing. As the then Head Coach and Director of Rugby at Stanford Rugby, I admired Andrews rugby nous and physical talent as part of an outstanding Uni of Utah 1st XV team. As such, it was a pleasure to select him as part of the Collegiate All Star squad to compete in the national All Star Championships, Denver. Andrew was selected on his rugby ability but more importantly, for his character. Andrew made the playing group better; his compassion, kindness, and warmth off the field underpinned a leadership ability that clearly blossomed upon graduation. He will be missed. Go raibh suaimhneas síoraí air, Coach Griff.

Dear Art, I am saddened to hear of your son’s passing. A difficult time for you and family. As you move forward I hope that you can find peace. Again, my heart is with you. With love, June and Neil Henderson

I met Andrew during a challenging time in my life where I was very much going through a recovery. Andrew was an instant friend and saw a potential in me that I had felt I had lost. He supported me in my music, which was a passion of mine. It’s hard to process this loss because in every way Andrew was one of my hero’s. He’d downplay that in a second, but everyone that knows him would get it. So long my friend, until we meet again.

Andrew, it was always fun to be with you. Rather it was fishing, golfing, or hanging out with you and the kids it was fun. You were always up and excited about anything you did and made it fun for family and friends to be around you. I miss you now and forever. Love, Uncle Richard

I will remember Andrew for his humor, kindness, and his endless curiosity. He had a way of bringing lightness into any moment—whether through his quick wit, a knowing smile, or a story shared around the fire at Christmas Meadows. His wood carvings were not only works of art but also reflections of the care and imagination he poured into everything he did. My most recent memory of him—hauling timber together in the Uinta's to rebuild the walkway to the river—reminds me of how Andrew approached life: with generosity, laughter, and a steady willingness to lead a charge or lend a helping hand. That afternoon was filled with conversation, shared memories, and a natural camaraderie that turned hard work into something joyful and memorable. Andrew's presence was a gift. His curiosity made him a lifelong learner, his kindness made him a trusted ally, and his humor made him unforgettable. He leaves behind not just memories, but a legacy of warmth, creativity, and love for the people and places that shaped him. My heart goes out to his wonderful family. May the love, kindness, and humor that Andrew shared so freely live on through each of you, and may the many memories you hold bring comfort in the days ahead.
