

Return with Honor

~ by Barbara McKeown

It's time to tell you goodbye for awhile
Through my tears I will manage a smile
And through your faith, God will reveal
The way to teach, to serve, to heal
I know he'll walk by your side every mile

As the Lord's sacred message you share
You will watch others rise from despair
As they glimpse eternity
When gospel truths they clearly see
And I'll continue to offer my prayer

May you return with honor
Rejoicing in a job well-done
Knowing that your soul shown bright
To those searching for the light
May you return with honor, dear one

It won't always be easy, I know
But the challenges will help you grow
And as you journey through your life
With lessons learned of joy and strife
You'll feel the love from God through you flow

May you return with honor
Rejoicing in a job well done
Having served your very best
Passing every trial and test
May you return with honor, dear one

And when your life's work is complete
And you kneel at the dear Savior's feet
It is my prayer that he will say
On that bright and glorious day
Amid angelic choirs so sweet

You have returned with honor
Rejoice now in a job well done
Come and dwell in peace and love
In my mansions up above
You have returned with honor, dear one
