

Return

By Norma Gustavson – Mother

If after I have gone you yearn
To fleetingly commune with me
Search the leeward side of a towering rock
Beside a restless sea.
I'll not return to the work-a-day world
And all the things we shared
To remind you with my presence
How very much we cared.
You must pursue the task of life
Until I am a memory
On the leeward side of a lofty rock
At Bandon by the sea.

In Loving Memory
