Memories caught up with me this morning when I read the obituary of Barbara. The Todd family moved in next door to us (the Melvin Woodbury family) on 18th East back in the l950s. Our families became very close friends and even went on a few day trips together. Wally, Barbara's younger brother, was a good friend of my brother, Craig, who passed away recently. Our family always ranked the Todd family as some of the best neighbors and friends we ever had. I have lived in Arizona ever since I was married in 1962 so we had lost touch with each other. But my memories are cherished of the years of our time as neighbors. My sympathies to all of Barbara's family. (A funny coincidence - Barbara and I shared the same first name, and our mothers were both named Agnes. We were destined to be good friends.)
