Steven Henry Shaha

October 20, 1953 ~ September 9, 2017

I had the pleasure of meeting Dr Shaha early in my medical career where he was discussing the wonders of decision support tools. He left a lifelong impression on me. He was very inspirational and made me hunger to work more in digital health. It was with great sadness that on seeking him outline to invite him as a guest speaker that I learned of his passing. But I also learned more about the rich life he lived, and the significant impact he has had on countless people around the world. I give thanks for his life and the short time I got to share with him. My condolences to his family, friends and loved ones. Rest in Peace Dr Shaha
