Gayle was a sweet lady, when I met her at the facility, where I am coming to see my mother-in-law. She always try to have conversation, greeting, and her marveled unforgettable smile, which could melt any heart! It was pleasure to give her a hand when she needed help, and when I was saying buy and will see you to my mother-in-law, Gayle was often saying, Come and see me too... She was missing her family... And when her tears will be close to come we gave each other hugs, and I will never forget her kissing my hand, and her saying I love you! Gayle, thank you for your incredible example of carrying of others, love, smile, big heart with small statue, your kindness to all! Peace and comfort to your soul! And deep sympathy to your family and friends! People like you are always golden treasure! Luda, Sandy UT

I was Gayle’s neighbor and friend, and have missed that friendship a great deal since moving to another state. I was so sad to hear of her passing. She was so vibrant, witty, and kind! I loved our conversations, especially when she talked about her life and career. She was an amazing artist and illustrator, and I’m really proud of the professional life she created using that talent! She always spoke fondly and lovingly of her parents, so I’m happy she is now with them again. I’m glad I had the gift of your friendship in my life, Gayle!

Gayle was my neighbor across the street on Stratford Avenue while I was growing up. Our families had many sweet interactions over the years as neighbors are wont to do. I helped my brother watch their property on one occasion while the Elllises were on vacation. They came home early from their trip, and left us boys a little red faced, as the house was not as neat and tidy as we would have liked. They were gracious and understanding and though a little disheveled at least their property was safe. It was there that I saw Gayles art work up close. I didn't know it at the time, but I was impressed at her skill and her keen eye. We were blessed to have their family as friends. Gayle was a happy faithful soul. Godspeed my friend until we meet again.
