Larkin

Dylan Charles Kerr

July 9, 2009 ~ February 17, 2015

Every time I’m in the area I sit down on his bench and just think about how we could’ve gone to school together after he left daybreak elementary, since we were in the same birth year. I just learned he donated organs to 3 other people after his passing, and I now wonder why people like Dylan aren’t considered heroes in all of our eyes compared to celebrities. If we can’t feel grief for people we’ve never met, how will we ever learn to empathize with our fellow strangers? I wish you a happy Saturday. Sincerely, A local.

- Alex