I just heard, forgive me - I travel a lot, and mostly to those areas that have less capability. I first met Mr. Gillette in Salt Lake City, he was my boss. His easy attitude made me feel right at home. His dedication to us the staff was amazing, in fact he taught me my first formulas, and gave such clarity that Ironically, I would become one of the defining talents of advanced AI neuro net systems the world has seen (or wont-lol). Not only was he a great Boss, but a great friend as well. On one of his birthdays, the staff and I bought (got-lol) him an old sheriff's gun and put it into a custom holster, that I had them embed a silver dollar into - Yes- that kind of boss. Honesty and integrity as he overwatched millions in funding, yet a cowboy and race car fanatic at heart. A really great, and good and kind guy. Please forgive me for not being around, Once I got back (9 years) from Afghanistan, I had to have time to heal (nearly lost the left leg-lol). I guess that was God's way of saying enough is enough, too many close calls-lol. I miss you and often think of you. It saddens me to see that you already hit the road, but know that you will look after (over) the rest of us, so at least there is some benifit. I had so many pictures to show you, and some stories that I know you would have appreciated, but they can wait until we meet again. AMEN. Also, if your wife sees this then she should know that if I am needed - contact the 916th SPT BDE and ask for Dustin, and I will assist.
