

Kyle James Bevan

April 14, 2007 ~ February 19, 2026

Dear Bevan Family, We are so very sorry to hear of your loss. I'm sending you all my love.

- Tonia Dalton

Heather, Sending so much love and hugs. Your love and care for your sweet son melts my heart. Thank you for always sharing your journey.

- Mika Brown

I am so sorry for your loss. He was taken way too young and fought so hard. You and your family are in my thoughts and prayers. May he rest in peace with our Lord and Savior. ■■■■■■■❤■■■

- Christine Sapeta

Kyle's bravery and courage in life is inspirational. Thank you for sharing his broader life journey. God bless you with solace, peace and love amidst this difficult time.

- Matt Bartholomew

I am so sorry to hear about your loss. My thoughts and prayers are with you and your family at this difficult time.

- Rich Haubrich

Kyle fly high as an angel and continue to watch over your family from above. You were loved by many I’m grateful for the time to see you grow up and more grateful that you can be at peace. With love from Daniel, Elisa, Elaina and Peerless.

- Daniel Perkins

Kyle was truly one of the most determined people this world has seen, its clear he got that from his family. I'm sure he would want us to reminisce and live in his honor without him. Much love, one of kyles many friends.

- Kaylum Beard

Words aren't enough to express how truly amazing and precious, and heartbreaking it was to read what was said about Kyle. Words aren't enough to express how much my heart aches for you, Heather, and Brian, and Oma, and, well, the list is long that is for sure. Please know that you are in my heart and in my prayers.

- Rhonda

Heather, I remember babysitting your boys when they were little. They were such sweet, happy babies! Even after I moved away, I loved seeing the moments you shared online - the outdoor adventures and family times. I was following along when Kyle started going through his health struggles and I was rooting for him so hard. My heart broke when I saw the news. Kyle's bravery was incredible. I'm so sorry for your loss. Sending so much love to you and your family ❤■

- Jessica Clark

What I left out son….is the bond we shared for the last 18-months was like going backwards in time before you were finding your footing and independence was beautiful. As a young adult and having to be totally reliant on your mom had to be quite a thing to reconcile. You were really mad and annoyed with me at times, and I understood. I am grateful for how much kindness you showed your grieving mom from day one. I grieved for each diagnosis, each surgery, each chemo treatment, every setback, and for all you had lost along the way. I put on a warrior face and became your beacon of strength and hope. I advocated every minute of every day to ensure your care was the best. I challenged professionals with my expectations to do better, be better. I made them see you well as motivation for all on #TeamKyle. We learned how to communicate without words or sight. You could hear my whispers from across the room and your heart rate always lowered with mom's touch and voice. I also forgot to mention in your life sketch about how you were one with nature, one with the changing tides and lakes, and one with the sun and moon. You never missed an opportunity to take in the sunset, the moon, and stars. There are more pictures in your phone of the beauty around you outside than memes or friends, especially during it all. You never took them for granted, like you knew somehow you may never see one again in physical form. My hope is now you get to see sunsets and stars across the universe with all the good feels. Through it all you always finished our I love you's with forever and ever and our because forever's with never ends! I will keep whispering to you always. I love and miss you Kyle ■. Mom

- Warrior Mom -Heather

I hadn't seen Kyle in years, not since he and I left our elementary school, Wasatch, in 2019. I was unaware of his health issues until I learned through a mutual friend that he had passed away. I remember Kyle as an always kind and bright spirit, and I remember him always carrying around a Rubik's cube, solving them way quicker than I ever could. Though my memories of him are fuzzy, they are there and I have been very affected by his passing. Mine and my parents's love and condolences go out to the Bevans and Kyle's close friends. Rest well Kyle. Your old friends have you in our thoughts.

- Liam Harrison-Stewart and Parents, Jason Stewart and PJ Hair

---

Each time I read these words I grieve anew for your loss. I didn’t know Kyle but my daughter was one of his therapists at the U hospital. She mentioned him to me several times and was devastated to lose him. My deepest condolences. He sounds like an incredible young man.

- Lynn Moore

Event details for this Sunday 3/22 https://everloved.com/life-of/kyle-bevan/

- Heather Cameron-Bevan

Oh Heather and family. I am SO sorry for your loss. I didn't know about Kyle's illness. I just heard and I am heartbroken for you all.

- Robyn Ensor

My heart goes out to you ❤■

- Tracy Golden