So many mixed feelings for your family and the gaping hole that mom's leave when they go back Home, but also for her joy and your father's joy and the reunion that awaits her over there! May you all find your own source of comfort at this time.■■

Gone home, but love resides.

First off.. I gotta say it.. GIMME A PIZZA!!! Mama G while I was struggling with my Mom not being present in my life, I was blessed to have you as my 2nd mom. From the first time I ate half the cookies you made, to taking part in the family white elephant Christmas party where Tim took my flip flops with built in headlights, being with all of you when Part of the Family was called to come back home, and living in Arizona when you moved from C- house.. My favorite memories will always be a fresh in my head everytime I make the Mama G cookies when you shared the secret recipe.. I still get people asking me to make them cookies. You have blessed so many people, made huge differences in their lives, a smile and laugh that lights up a room!! And I won't tell your kids, I was your favorite. Shannon especially!! But you are loved, I miss you already and I know the plan. I'm happy to celebrate your life with the Family and excited you get to reunite with your BEST Friend and see Danny.. I will forever be grateful to have known you and received the unconditional love. Love you Mama G!!
