What a gentle, giant of a man Clint is....your family is so blessed to have him as your head. He and Shirley, what a team they are....faithful, kind, talented and so handsome. My husband Max and I were blessed to be able to call them friends, and served beside them in our ward. Their dedication and optimism were contagious and they were a true example of Christlike service. In reading about all that Clint accomplished in his life is pretty humbling....we are so grateful for his remarkable service to our country, where some of the fiercest of battles of WWII were fought. His physical strength was so important when he served as a fireman. You say he is a "baby whisperer", which certainly demonstrated his dedication to his family. Everyone knew that Clint and Shirley were a solid love connection, and I was happy to read of their continuing temple service. I just remember one of their daughters, and I'm not even sure of her name, but it was when we all lived in Stratford Ward...I just remember that she was so beautiful, just like her mother. I know the Lord will pour out his blessings upon all of you, especially dear Shirley, and I know you take comfort in knowing your family is eternal and your great dad will be watching over you too. With love, Doris Williams
