I rlly miss addi so much, she was the brightest light in our team, never was rude, mean, disruptive, or anything, she was so perfect. I always looked up to addi the moment I entered the team, she was the start of my passion for cheer. I rlly love my team so much, we help each other in many ways, and always lift each other up, even when we have our ups we have our downs, but that doesn’t stop us from being a team/friends. Addi was so amazing and is always going to be loved, forever and ever, she was so bright and thoughtful, so funny and had the best skills ever. I love u addi. ■

i miss u soooo so much pretty girl, happy early birthday i might just cover myself in pink and blue to celebrate your birthday. Things have gotten bad without ya , the cheer community doesn’t feel right and i am genuinely so sad we cannot have another conversation or say hi to each other at another comp. the day you died, i thought it was all a joke. after seeing u went missing, i thought you’d be found safe but the day i went on instagram and saw the news, i cried for days and even went to school with tears in my eyes but i fought through the day for you and i know you’d be proud of me for it. there is no word strong enough to express how much i miss u and wish i could travel to utah to atleast honor you with others, but florida is pretty far and i don’t think my mom would say yes. i miss you addi girl.
