I remember Coach Jewels as a basketball player and runner in middle school (1975-1977). What a great man and example of putting in hard work to achieve something great in return. My thoughts and prayers go out to his family and friends.

Hue Jewkes 1919 ---- 2021 Fred and Edward then Erma, Mary. Bernerd and Hue then Kay. Filled the kettle of family-mixed-with a mother's hope and pray. Then added still Beth, Dall and Thomas. Rounding out the mix. A time far gone when held them all, in a home secured of sticks. Mighty, strong the men flew forth, meeting maiden fair. Women sought the men, all bound, to God beneath their care. Alma Hue Jewkes, grew then tall, strengthened harvesting hay. Knew horse and buggy, to fetch and plow and till a land so gray. And Emery land did know his youth and fought to keep him still But knowledge sought and college-bound did guide his spirits will Till duty rang the bell of war, drafted to an ocean's beck. Placed a Captain's hat on head, and bound him to a deck. Then roled red waves, crashing 'gainst shores on foreign soil. Saw humbled hero returned, God's forged and hardened foil. To find the wife of equal sight, beauty, focused on a home Carol by name, held square his feet and quailed his urge to roam. Profession bound, found in a coach, to academia's youth. Hammering boys to men, taught sportmen's learned truth. And begat his fame twix two sons, strong boys to test his fire Soon felt the pain of crippling hope that killed the father's ire. And held the rod, watching growth, of a blessed family scene, but blessed far most, four kindred souls, to carry on his dream. Two daughter's love could not quench a thirst so freely given. Did hug his neck and kiss his cheek entwining souls as ribbon. Sorrow, mourning, the loss of that which fathers should not bury, The birth of those came to his life but needed not to tarry. 100 years came and went, breathed he through two century. Good yield his harvest, kin to all, and vetted by the Gentry. No claim to fame will mark his grave, but all who knew will know He loved the most that fed the small and set the world aglow. Came he now, from horse till rocket, stumbling through the time. Letting go now earth, sallying forth, seeking love's calling chime.

What a great man. He was my driver's education teacher. He put the brake on his side of the car, when I had not counted to 3 when I stopped. I gave him a look and he just laughed. I always had a lot of respect for him. My love and prayers for your family.

As I have watched Coach Jewkes's life as a student, a friend and a brother I have come to the conclusion that Hue Jewkes had the same challenges as the prophet Job in the Old Testament. I also believe that Hue Jewkes over came the Challenges with the same amount of humility, gratitude and love for God as did Job. The total amount of love and respect that Coach had for Family will not be recognized until the books are opened on the other side of the Vail. Until that time; Thank you for standing tall and truly living a Christ like life.

Uncle Hue was such a beautiful kind man. He always made me feel important. He was easy to love. The way he kept in touch and made lunch dates with my mom (Teri Lowry) after my dad (John Lowry) died was so important to me and I know it meant everything to my mother. Thanks for being you and giving everyone your love.

Dear Porschet Family, What a legacy this valiant man leaves with you. No matter how long we have a loved one with us, it is never long enough. A. J. I remember (hopefully correctly) that you were the only daughter and your Dad was such a great Dad to you. Knowing you, your talents, contributions, dedication to that which is good, speaks highly of him as well as you. May you all be comforted knowing where he is, and that one day you will all be together for ever. Fondly, Sally Jo Hue Jewkes was a great neighbor, friend, and home-teacher. I never remember him driving by when he didn't wave or stop to say hello. Even after he stopped driving, he would walk by with his walker and wave hello or stop to chat a bit. Before 2020, we had the privilege of having him attend the annual Veteran's Day Celebration at our school. He always seemed thrilled to be there, but in fact, we were the ones who were honored that he could attend along with my parents. His life was an extraordinary example of humility and kindness for all who knew him.

Alma Jean and family, I had heard your Dad was ill but didn't realize he had passed until I saw someone's post today. What a great man he was! He was a legendary figure at SSHS through all my years at school there. I remember taking math and history from him, and yes Driver's Ed as well. He was well-loved as a Coach and will long be remembered by many. Certainly his was a life well-lived. My deepest condolences to you and your family; may God bless and comfort you at this time of sorrow. Dorothy (Wagstaff) Laney
