Truly heartbreaking to say but I will see you again lil angel boy. I love you so much. May Creator hold all your loved ones and comfort, guide you all.

There are no words to ease the pain of losing someone so young, so precious, and so full of promise. Please know that my heart aches with yours. Atsa brought light and joy in their short time with us, and that light will never fade from our memories. May you find strength in the love that surrounds you and comfort in knowing how deeply were loved. With deepest sympathy and all my love.

You brought so much joy to my heart and your brothers. You are missed every day by us. You and I bonded so well together. I miss playing with you, tickling you, reading you books,hearing you talk, watching you follow your brother around, hearing you say mama, (you sounded so cute when you speak), hearing you sing, watching you dance, and hearing you call your brother nani. I remember you used to always want your brother to pick you up . When you used to poke out your lip it was so cute . I miss you so so so much and love you and your brothers love you also. Bye for now. We love you Atsa
