The Waldron Family loves the Bosgraaf family and our condolences to all of you for the loss of your sweet Dutch Mr. Soccer. Our family got to know Bill over the past few years as he offered up his RSL match tickets to us on several occasions through his son, and our great friend Jeff. We sat by him during several games and our conversations were entertaining. No doubt he had a passion for his family and the beautiful game of soccer. He will be missed. Thoughts and prayers for all of the Bosgraaf family at this time.

For Bills Family; your father influenced many people with wit, sarcasm, and wisdom. He had a never failing eye or touch to help humanity. His achievements should be very large in number while you look at the endless list. His unwavering kindness and guidance to help and share friendship is much larger. For Bill, I am sure there is a pitch somewhere in the beyond, it needs help and care God Bless

My dear sweet cousins, I am saddened to hear of your dad's passing. He sure was a fighter. I have many wonderful memories of him in my growing up years. I send my deepest sympathy to you all. Love, Lori

My heart goes out to all of Bill’s family and friends who I know will miss him dearly. To say Bill was passionate about our “beautiful game” would be an incredible understatement. Bill lived and breathed soccer. He contributed so much for so many years, backing his passion for the game with a huge commitment of time and fervor. The last time I spoke with Bill, not that long ago in the midst of his treatments, he was spitting fire about the gamesmanship and time wasting in the modern game. He said as earnestly as ever that he was going to get on a plane and meet with his FIFA contacts and give them a piece of his mind so that they would fix it. Oh Bill, you will be sorely missed!

We met Bill when we moved in across the street. Bill was always going some where, so we nodded said hello and talked a little Soccer. When Bill became sick he stayed home more and we really became friends. We learned so much from Bill about Soccer. Bill and I enjoyed going to lunch together and talking to everyone. Laughter follows Bill. We will miss him so much. We are sorry for your loss.
