I knew Brandie only for a short time but there is no greater shine than that of her huge heart. When she was doing service for others. She is truly one of the most loving and beautiful women I have ever met.. Im grateful that she was set free from her pain and disappointment in her self .. and going through all she was going through she still had human compassion for everyone she met. .I hope your dancing in heaven Brandie . your precious heat and beautiful face will definitely missed

I didn’t know you but I understand what you went through. There’s nothing more challenging than trying to overcome addiction and I’m certain you are doing much better. I won’t let your passing go in vain and I will double down on my own commitment to stay clean and help others who struggle.
