

Carol A. Esterreicher

January 15, 1940 ~ February 23, 2026

I am sorry to hear about Carol’s passing. She had an effervescent intelligence that made her magic presentation engaging.

- John Maynard

Carol was a fellow Storyteller, and such a delight. She worked with me when I was just getting started and I am proud to call her a friend. I will miss her!

- Julie Barnson

She was one of my story telling teacher and mentor at the Murray Senior Center, I enjoyed hearing her spoonerism tales...she was a truly amazing and kind woman and I will miss listening to her future stories. Rest in peace, in God's embrace.

- JoAnna Johannesen

To the family of Carol - we loved her so much! I worked as an SLP for Jordan District with Carol for decades! She is bright and creative; charming and gracious; fun and loving and supportive of all. May God Bless You and hold you until you are with her again. Kinda White

- Linda White slp

It was a pleasure to share stories and the love of stories with Carol. She was always a delight. My love to you as celebrate her life, and keep her memory bright.

- Lynn Wing

Carol was a beloved friend from our days together as storytellers. Fond and joyful memories of her are flooding in. What very sad news to learn of her passing. Know that she was delightful in every way and so precious to her many friends.

- Sandra Malbon

The memorial services were lovely. It was nice to hear from the whole family. Carol impacted many lives for good through her career as a speech pathologist, and her extra interests (especially storytelling). We love her and will miss her. Our hearts go out to her family as they cope with this loss and find comfort in treasured memories.

- Annie Eastmond

So very sorry. I just pulled out your family Christmas letter so I could try to contact Carol. I had tried in January, but without success. She was one of my two best friends in high school and I wish we could have lived closer together over the years. She was a real “doer”, and she did! God will be using her, also. With caring , Alice March 13, 2026

- Alice Chernesky

What a dear woman! She will be missed! It was always fun to do storytelling events, programs and projects with her. There was of laughter and many smiles.

- Leticia Pizzino