Tuvimos la suerte de conocer a Christine una esposa amorosa, una madre cariñosa, una hija encantadora y una hermana complice, quien tenia una fortaleza espiritual inigualable, que priorizaba su familia antes que a ella. Eso le permitio acompañar a su familia casi 4 años. Oremos ahora para que pueda descansar al lado del Señor y asi gozar de la vida eterna

I never knew Christine as a mother to her three beautiful daughters or as a wife to her devoted husband, Matt. Rather, I was her college professor and advisor at Westminster. Christine was very special to me. She was incredibly bright and understood very complex material at a high level. More importantly, Christine was a bright light in the classroom. She was a kind and thoughtful person who carried with her a sense of joy. I never tired of seeing the giant picture of her beautiful face hanging on the Westminster dormitory building on 1300 East. I followed Christine's devastating battle with leukemia from afar, through Facebook. I only communicated with her a few times but I read all of her posts and looked at all of her pictures. It was clear how much she loved her family and how hard she fought to stay with them. While the news of her passing was heartbreaking, I am grateful that she is no longer suffering. I send my love to all of you. You are so lucky to have had Christine love you.

Dear Matt, Gabby, Sophie and Izzy: In January of 2009 I was called as the bishop of the Westminster Ward, and soon met Christine Garcia. From the start, I noted that Christine was a truly luminous and beautiful spirit—a supreme torch bearer, shedding such light and joy on all around her. It was as if Christine was surrounded by a circle of happiness and positive spiritual energy which was almost tangible. It was always a true joy and delight to be in her presence. Throughout 2009 I watched with great interest as her courtship with Matt Latimer, another member of the Westminster Ward, unfolded, culminating in their temple sealing in December of 2009. There were may marriages in our little ward that year, but I felt something special about the union of Matt and Christine, and foresaw that they would be truly remarkable parents, a perfect combination of strength, joyousness, love, and dedication. Christine is one in a million—a special, radiant soul. I have no doubt that her angelic influence will continue to hover over and bless the lives of her sweet daughters, and her children's children to the latest generation. My wife Julie joins with me in extending to you our love, condolences, and great hope in the promises of the Lord! With much love, Dan Gibbons
