It was a joy to work with David on amusement industry issues over the last 40+ years. David was passionate about the industry and was instrumental in generating the first ASTM standards as well as many improvements and additions to the standard. It is a powerful emotion to see one of my mentors and friends pass away. Dave took a young man who knew how to work hard and turned me into a man who works with a purpose. He taught me how to get the most out of myself and our employees without killing the human spirit but effectively fueling them with direction. Dave, like his father (Peter) mentored me into the man I am today. Dave and Peter were vastly different, yet perfectly similar. They both taught me that no matter your position in life that you treat others with respect and dignity. I can say unequivocally that had Dave Freed not been in my life that I would not be the man that I am today. I know that there are thousands who would say the same thing. I will forever know Dave not as the man who owned and operated Lagoon, but as the man who changed the world by molding those of us who were willing to be taught by him. We all then did do our part in leading the world within each of our respective crafts. Dave was the captain of one of the best leadership factories in the country and though he has passed, he lives on inside of me and many like me. Those attributes will continue to be passed on to my children, my employees, and those who may look to me for what I looked for and found in Dave. Dave; in your own maverick way you gained the respect of intelligent men and women and the love of children; you lived well, laughed often and loved much; you clearly filled your niche and accomplished your task; you have certainly left this world better than you found it; you never lacked in appreciation for earth's beauty nor did you fail to express it; and last, but not least, you always looked for the best in others and always gave the best you had.
