Dearest Ariel and Family, I offer my sincerest condolences. The obituary is really beautiful, it opened a window into her life that gave me a glimpse of a woman, who lived a very creative and passionate life. I hope that you all find solace in knowing that she was a true lover of life. May Eileen find peace in the Great Beyond. ■■■■ Cristhal

Missing Eileen so much. I got so much amazing life advice from her, and I'm so grateful I got to spend a lot of time with her in the months before her passing. She will have an impact on my life forever. Sending her whole family so much love. Wherever you are Eileen, thank you for everything. Love you and miss you.

My deepest condolences and prayers go out to the family. I was blessed to know Eileen and had many wonderful conversations with her as her ecclesiastical leader. She loved this earth, she loved God and she loved those all around her. She was a very caring and devoted individual. My life was blessed because of Eileen. May God grant peace and comfort to her family as she reunites with those that have gone before.

Michael Chapman forwarded this to me. Very sad to lose wonderful people from our midst. Met Sam about forty to fifty years back on a return visit to SF. Condolences to Ariel, Peter, Miranda and entire extended family, of skin and fur. A loved and loving, lovely life. ■

My clearest memories of Eileen (I always knew her primarily as Sam), are at Olema Way Station. The gypsy truckers were staying behind the barn, and in the barn. Sam and Peter and Ariel were in a little cabin even further behind the barn, and we would sometimes talk. I loved her as I did all the wonderful people I became acquainted with at the ranch. What a special woman she was. I'm glad her final time was spent with those who loved her. May she truly rest in peace. My heart goes out to you two girls. Always remember the joy and wonder of being her daughters, of having this great influence in your making. Blessings to you and all the others of us mourning her loss.

We came into Eileen's life late in all of our lives. She was a joy to know. She always greeted us with her beautiful smile when we visited with her. She shared some of her life experiences with us and blessed us with her friendship.. She was a delight! Our thoughts and prayers are with you at this tender time. Thank you for the beautiful obituary. It meant a lot to learn more about her life. She is loved.!

It is sad to hear of Sam's last struggles and sad to know that she no longer walks the earth with us. I know that finding deeper spiritual meaning was an important quest for Sam. I hope she found some of this in her passing. You, Ariel, are a tribute to one of the ways Sam walked on this earth in the way you are taking care of her even now after her passing. Blessings to you and others whom Sam touched and who are affected by this event we will all eventually share. With great affection, --Kenoli Oleari

I have written so much about Eileen over the past few weeks, I'd say I've said it all, but bet I haven't.. Eileen.... Eileen watched over me when we lived at Olema, advice, care, kindness.... She continued to function as a serious big sister at Turkey Ridge (example: she supported my going to college and wouldn't let me cook!), and even years later on Facebook, Sam's wise advice was still coming.. Eileen loved me, supported me, while at the same time, pretty much everything that came out of her mouth was funny.. She saw the humor in everything and saw it instantaneously. Her reaction would arrive literally in seconds. Her sense of humor was so, just so, spot-on — yet always warm. Even at times in her life when she was deeply hurting inside (and she didn't hide that either) , she still missed nothing: She'd make a crack and damn! could make me laugh. Eileen stuck to her guns about what she believed which led to some actual avoidable poverty. Lots of us joined the world a little more, but not Sam and Sam was a superstar or could have been whenever she'd chosen to. And she never did. She will always be one of my heroes. I have donated $50 in her name to the Wounded Warriors Project. She chose them for the last Facebook birthday fundraiser I remember. Thus, this was a group to whom she donated. Love, Lynnie

Eileen was a joy to be with! She could keep us spell bound with all of her stories about and the things she did throughout her life. Some stories made us laugh and some made our mouths drop open. To say she was an interesting person with an interesting life would be a vast understatement. She was also very spiritual. I had the privilege of sitting in on the six lessons she took from missionaries from the LDS church and was impressed at the depth of her understanding and desire to know more. I had the privilege and honor of baptizing her into the LDS church. She has a part of my heart forever. I have no doubt that she is extremely happy where she is. Tears fill my eyes as I write this. Bye my dear friend. I look forward to seeing you again.

It was with great sadness to hear of Eileen's passing. My deepest sympathies and condolences to Ariel, Miranda and to her family and extended family of friends. Although I wasn't close to Eileen, I did have many wonderful conversations with her. One that sticks out was a discussion around making Native American Indian drums. We spent an hour discussing the process and she showed me many examples she had and gave me a demonstration. I had a sawmill and she wanted me to save any thin strips of vertical grain Douglas Fir for her to use for making drums. I deeply regret that I never managed to get them to her. I was young(26), wild and distracted. I am certain she understood. Both Ariel and Miranda are testaments to the character of Eileen's quest for knowledge, generosity and artistic spirit. I know them both since the mid 80's and care deeply for them. They carry that same curiosity, compassion and talent for the arts. It isn't always easy being the child of a free spirit, a seeker, an artist. I send my prayers to her and those that loved her. A free spirit has been set free.

I knew Eileen only through email exchanges over the years. I just went hunting for her address to let her know I was finally finishing an embroidery she inspired me to start decades ago. I am sad for her family and friends; she had a wonderful presence. The obituary is a fitting tribute to a creative and loving spirit.
