I just learned of dear Erika

I just learned of Erika's passing yesterday. My sympathy to her family. As a ward member, I always knew when Erika stood to bear her testimony there would be a faith promoting story delivered with enthusiasm and passion. For someone so small, she delivered quite a punch. I always like to contemplate the reunion on the other side of the veil, especially when someone had lived a long life and has many who have gone and on before. She was a great example to me.

My deepest condolences To Ingrid and her side of the family. We were not family by blood, but Erica was my grandma too. I'm deeply saddened that I wasn't so much as sent a note to let me know. I was the first grandchild who actually call Erica "grandma" and this made me very sad to hear of her passing. It took me stepping away from what others deemed appropriate for us to call her, but I was proud to use the term. Nobody is perfect, but Grandma Erica came close to it for me as I was growing up. She will always be in my memories as someone important when I was a child most especially. As an adult, she taught me that nobody can be counted on except for your own self. She did teach me one thing most especially-that you control your own destiny, and that you can reach out and take it!
