My dearest friend, Jack. You leave behind a world filled with love for you. Not a day will pass without grateful hearts, belonging to individuals blessed to have you in their lives for however long it may be. Your giant heart, coupled with your desire to give of yourself, as much as you could with every pressing moment, is what truly set you apart from anyone I ever knew. It was my distinguished honor to have met you in this life. It will be my mission to find you in the next. Until Valhalla, my Brother.
