

Joel C. Peterson

May 20, 1947 ~ November 25, 2025

So sorry for your loss.

- John Turner

Joel was one of a kind. Tremendous work ethic, insights and keen judgment on all facets of life and business. He was born to teach and lead. We were all blessed to have time with him on this earth, and there is doubt his of his heavenly reward.

- William Concannon

Joel Peterson had a profound impact on the Finance Program at Brigham Young University. In the early 80s he funded a professorship in the the Finance Program at the Marriott School of Business at Brigham Young University. The Business School was able to use the proceeds from his endowment to hire and retain outstanding faculty members in the field of financial economics. His gift was an important contribution to the remarkable progress made in research and class teaching in the field of finance. It is a gift that will continue to bless generations of students.
