Kari's passing came as a great shock to us all. One feels a great and inner emptiness because of this painful message about Kari's journey from us and beyond. Kari was so wonderful in every way. Our uncle Karl and aunt Åse traveled with our cousins ■■Kari and Turid from Trondheim to SLC in 1951. It was the intention that our family should join. Everything was clapped and ready. It was the same year I was born. But my mother, Jorunn, hesitated and changed her mind. She was unable to leave her mother and father, the fishing family at the far end of the sea off the Norwegian coast. Karl, Åse, Kari and Turid, and several others over there have visited their family here in Norway several times. And many of us have also been visiting our family in Utah. We are proud of you all and the inseparable bonds that will always be there. With Kari, another important piece is gone. Kari's great love for her origins and her family in Norway was never weakened. That she cared about her family in Norway was so clear in every context by the great attention she showed on so many occasions. Kari was a warm and kind person who cared about everyone. It hurts a lot to think that she's gone now. Nothing can fill the big void left by Kari. Our thoughts go especially to our dear Lee, and then to everyone else in our wonderful family across the Atlantic. We love you all. And we stand together in grief after the loss of our dear Kari.
