Loabelle Black Mangelson-Clawson

April 14, 1937 ~ May 21, 2023

Cory and Family, Please accept my deepest sympathies for your loss. Your Mother was beautiful and an Artist, simply lovely. May she rest in peace.

- Marissa Perea

Cory, Kellie and Scott, Loa lived a remarkable life. She loved her children and grandchildren. Loa and I had many good times and good conversations over the years. I think she and my dad also had some very good times. They both loved art, dance and music. I had the privilege of watching Loa in one of her one woman shows. She was fabulous. I know you all will miss her. Alzheimer's is a cruel disease. My husband Jim also died of Alzheimer's. I was his primary care giver and he died at home in 2020. In time some of those memories fade and more of the memories from when the person you loved before the disease take a more prominent place and give you more good things to remember. Be well and take care. Elyse

- Elyse Clawson

I am so sorry for our loss. And thank you very much to whoever wrote such a gorgeous obituary.

- Joan Woodbury

She was an inspiration and a beautiful celebration of life.

- Jared Despain