Thanks to the 34th Reunions, I was blessed to know and love the old coot and his family. His gruffness and straight-forwardness attracted me, only to find out it was all a facade. He had a heart-of-gold and was the proud patriarch of a terrific family. Will truly miss you in Maine, but will see ya in a few years.

- Howard Townsend

So sad to hear of Marshall's passing. Going to miss his banter at the reunions. Another brother passing into history.

My heartfelt condolences: I worked with Marshall (Diggy) for several years at the Army Aviation Support Facility. He had a great sense of humor and kept me laughing during our 10 am and 3 pm breaks. Everyone at the Utah Guard liked Diggy; he was a stalwart worker and excellent soldier.

There is a lot that could be written about Marshall. He loved two countries, Scotland and America. He served America for 22 years and loved everyone who was associated with that part of his life. I remember when he was born as I was his cousin 5 years his senior. I also remember the day when he came to America, as that was also the day that Kennedy was shot. I recall him telling us about the passengers on the plane when they heard the news that had been radioed to the pilot. He was a hard working man and always provided a good and happy life for his wife, Virginia, and for their family. There is a lot to be impressed about in how he enjoyed his life, but for me it was the way that he and his family were so close and loving. They were loyal and true to each other and they supported each other in whatever their endeavour was. He loved his children and grand children with a great passion, and above all his one and only soulmate was and will be for ever his wife Virginia.. They are an forever couple, and I hope to be there to see them united in love again, when the roll is called up there for me. God Bless the entire family and keep them strong and united now as they were when he was with them. God bless you too Marshall, my wee cousin, you returned with honor.

I was one of the lucky few that got to meet Marshall and his family. Ed, Valerie, and I have known each other for over 50 years. They adored their big brother. I'm sure Marshall would get tired of all the kids that were hanging around his parent's home. He was definitely someone whose example any person would like to follow. Ginny and family, Ed, Debbie, Valerie, Charlie and family you were lucky to have him not only as a big brother but a great man. He has definitely earned his place with the Lord.
