

Maxine Nelson-Bruin

January 6, 1973 ~ December 7, 2023

Kaden, Reagan and Erica I am so sorry for your loss. I know this has not been easy. Some of the things I loved that I think everyone in the family loves also was their backyard, their cute chicken coop with all the cute chickens running around, the bees l, the flowers,, the creativity. Although it has been a tough few months for the family,, Max is loved. I hope that y'all can find some peace in your heart and know how much she loved her little family. I love you ALL Jolene

- Jolene Savage

Max not only touched me but meant a great deal to my girls. I feel so lucky that I had the opportunity to cross paths with such a beautiful person let alone live on the same street when the rest of the world was shut down. Her rhythm inspired me to be better— to cultivate a life of peace and love. I admired her, looked up to her, and am deeply grateful for the memories I have of this incredible person. Sending so much love and peace.

- Katie Krongard

I want Maxine to know that I understand what she went through. I am in the same 'club'- regarding child abuse that ripped through my family of origin and left scars that might never heal. It's not a club you want to be in - yet I am strangely grateful for the hell I personally have endured in my childhood because it created an immense desire in my soul to not cause harm on this planet and to help others. I love that Maxine pulled this ugliness out from the darkness and into the light where it belongs. Peace to you.

- Erin

Hi Kaden sorry for your loss of your mom. I thank her for inviting me whenever she has time. She is the best friend to me and always positive and talkative so I'll miss max from the bottom of my heart

- Taki Truong