I've known Mitch for several years. He was always such a bright light, even when we would be grumpy at each other. He always went above and beyond and with such a kind heart and sense of humor. The very first time we ever met Mitch he was helping his neighbors! We were just moving in and the plows never got to our street because our road didn't go through all the way yet and the houses were still going up, so we weren't a priority to the city. There was Mitch in a kubota tractor, going up and down the street plowing the entire street for our neighborhood!! One of the last times we chatted with Mitch he was on his four wheeler clearing out in front of everyone's driveway laughing and joking with us. He had also grabbed a shovel and was helping shovel some driveways that weren't yet finished. We all know how Mitch felt about snow... If that doesn't say how great of a neighbor he was, I don't know what does. He was always willing to lend a hand or a tool and he had the best sarcastic answer to any question or comment, leaving you walking away with a smile. Mitch was even concerned about his littlest neighbors by trying to help watch for and slow down some of the speedy teenagers that would fly up and down our street. When he wasn't at work, he was usually out front detailing and cleaning one of his families cars, bikes, or his truck, or he was Jamming to music with yardwork waving to everyone who passed by. Our neighborhood just won't be the same without him.
