Nick made me feel comfortable when It was hard for me to get to know anyone always inviting me to social events with his friend never drowning me out. I got to know him for 2 years and I cherish those writing back in forth in group chats making Nick's name such as goonie swuan cupcake and other various words to bring a closer and laughter. He would always smile and see the positive. May you rest in peace Nick James Orr love you 3'000

Our family knew Nick as a young boy. He was our neighbor across the cul-de-sac. We have many fond memories watching him grow up before we moved away. Nick had a wonderful sense of humor, even as a young boy. He loved playing tricks on us. One Spring, we were planting forsythia in our yard, and we gave Nick an extra plant. He was very excited as he wanted to compete to see whose plant would grow faster. We agreed to his strangely specific rules, and he walked away with that mischievous smirk he would sometimes have. A week into the competition we caught Nick sneaking out to water his plant...with blue Gatorade! When confronted, he reminded us that he never specified what couldn't be used for watering. We advised him to stick to water, but he was sure Gatorade would be the key to his victory. Within another week... Nick's forsythia had shriveled and died. I made the diagnosis of acute Gatorade poisoning. Nick loved that! He asked for another plant but we didn't have one. I now wish I would have found a way to get him one more plant. Our family will always remember Nick. We will plant a forsythia somewhere special and think of him every time we see it, especially as it bursts back with life each Spring. All of our love, The Mortensen Family
