My heart is breaking for your family right now. This is one of the hardest things to go through. I'm so, so sorry. This brings tears, and more tears to my eyes. Owen is such a beautiful baby boy. He looks healthy and strong. Such a cute little face. He will be your angel forever, and be guiding and watching your family. I know because Carter watches over us and our family. My prayer is that Heavenly Father will be with your family and give you answers and peace. Love you guys♥■♥■

You have our sincere condolences. We share the same grief when our first grandchild was stillborn. The family took comfort in the inscription on his gravestone. "In memory of our perfect child". The thought being that his spirit was special, not having to take his earthly test. He's back in the loving arms of his Heavenly Father . With love, the Scott Family

Dear Mitch, Kristie and family, We are deeply saddened to hear of your loss of your beautiful son, Owen Mitchell. He is such a beautiful baby and looks exactly as I would picture him. I will always remember his birthday. It was my 70th birthday! I know Owen is in the arms of Jesus. The angels will keep him in their care until you can all be together again. You are in our prayers. God Bless you all.

Mitch and Kristie, we are so sorry for your loss. Owen was a beautiful baby. Through this tragedy I've learned a few things, one is how grateful I am for a loving Father in Heaven who allows families to be together forever. I also hold my grandchildren a little longer than I used to. I tell the people I Love and care about that I Love and Care about them. I find Joy in the things that matter, Family, Faith and Friendship. I am Grateful that you are my Family and that you are Friends and that we share a common bond in our faith in the Lord. I Love you both, and am praying you will feel our Father in Heaven Love for you and find Peace.

We are so sorry that your sweet grandson Owen was not able to spend more time with you here. However, we know that he lives in your hearts and minds, and knows that he is loved. We are also sorry that he will not experience the overwhelming love you have for him, though being with our Father now he knows the perfect love that you wanted so to share with him. We love you all and pray that our common faith in God will help carry you in this very difficult time.
