I would like to share memories of Jay England, Jack Fletcher and others. From about 1965 through the early seventies, Jack Fletcher would come to Salina, Utah, with his sons-in-law and hunt pheasants in the area. They enjoyed the hunt and Jack Leaming, my father would secure permits to hunt specific areas. I was about 10 when I remember this happening and must have been a pest, but they tolerated that well. Finer examples of gentlemen I cannot imagine. Jack, Jay, Dick and eventually Bryan were happy to hunt and visit after the hunt. It wasn't so much about the harvest, but the association for them. It was an event looked forward to during those years by my father, for them to come. Jay was so kind and left an impression on me of what a young boy ought to emulate. I will always have fond memories of Jay, Jack, my dad and those days. Please accept my condolences for your temporary partings, but know your posterity is made of the finest people.
