

Peter Lee Goss, Ph.D.

March 7, 1943 ~ March 7, 2025

Peter was a patient and encouraging mentor, serving on my Master's project committee and consulting on various architecture and historic preservation projects over the years. When I was a grad student Peter was on my Master's project committee and I also worked closely with him preparing a historic structures report and drawings for the addition to his house in Spring City as he was restoring it. I recall long discussions with him on the various preservation projects he was involved in. But what I remember most about Peter is he was always kind, positive and willing to answer a question. And I could always count on a Christmas card from him and Inge-Lisa!

I am saddened to hear the news of his passing that I just learned of today. He helped nurture my affection of prairie school architecture with his books and information, especially regarding Taylor Woolley. One of my fondest memories is when he brought a class to Highland Park and they toured my home. He helped create a legacy with the knowledge he brought specifically regarding Utah architecture.
