Brent is one of the great people I have known. I worked with Brent at LDS Business College for many years. I found him ever kind, gracious, patient, and very competent. He had a down-to-earth intelligence and great insight. Brent loved people and treated them with kindness and insight. He taught me many things. Brent is the kind of man I would like to become. His faith in God, love of others, and patience in afflictions honed his character. His death must leave a great void. Know that I, and many others, love Brent and pray that you will have peace.
