

Randall Aubrey Mackey

December 1, 1945 ~ August 20, 2024

I was fortunate to get to play basketball regularly with Randall for the last 20 years of his basketball career. What an incredible 3 point shot he had making him a challenging opponent! He was encouraging and positive without complaining or ever putting down another player. He also put effort into learning about and supporting the people who he played with. It's been a blessing in my life to know him.

My deepest condolences to the Mackey family. Randall played a big part in my decision to attend Harvard as an undergraduate. His zeal for the university and education were amazing! I hope you are able to feel his love and presence as his legacy lives on!

- David Larkin

My deepest condolences to you all. Many times, I saw the immense love and devotion he had for your family. What an incredible life and an incredible man. Randall was the rarest of combinations, a person of great ability matched by equal humility, a private person who worked in the public eye, a native son of Utah but a citizen of the world, a man of deep expertise and far-reaching interests. I came to know and appreciate him working with him in business and the alumni association. If the measure of a person is the gap left by his departure, then truly Randall Mackey was a man of inestimable quality. I am as sorry to learn of his passing as I am glad to have been able to know him.

We had the wonderful privilege of knowing Randall during his graduate school days -- before Margaret and all those amazing children. What an incredible example of a life well lived!!! We will miss him dearly!!

- Nolan and Margaret Archibald

As well as being brilliant, involved in church, school and community, Randall was the consumate gentleman and always so kind. We remember him from graduate school days and that association was a blessing for us. Sending love to his family

Our beloved Margaret and family, For a goodly number of years, the well being and happiness of inhabitants of the Harvar/Yale neighborhood and members of the Yale II Ward were substantially enhanced by the presence of the Randall A. and Margaret W. Mackey family. Moreover, during the last months of Bob's service as bishop of the ward, there cried out a specific need for the wisdom and counsel of an individual to fulfill that need, in response to which the Lord provided a goodly man by the name of Randall A. Mackey as a counselor to Bob in the bishopric of the ward. We love each member of the Mackey family and mourn the temporary loss of their husband, father and patriarch--our dear friend Randall Mackey, whose goodness, together with the goodness of each family member, will, we believe, ensure the perpetuation of the family eternally.

I met Randy the first quarter of our freshmen year at the U where we had a speech class together from Royal Garff. Being from N.J. I was nervous about the unknown Salt Lake City. Randy befriended me with a warm welcome as we shared our experience of being Greek pledges. I was delighted to meet him again in Boston after I married Robert & share the Boston experience with him. We were in the same Ward. I was even more excited to learn that he met someone & married while in law school in New York. It was a wonderful extension of our friendship when he & Margaret moved in across the street from us on Harvard Ave. We spent so much time together in the Yale 2 Ward. Our children were good friends & hung out at each other's houses. We had wonderful discussions about the Gospel. He became Randall & I became Kathryn. He was still that warm welcoming soul to everyone that moved into the Ward. We mourned when the Mackeys moved way over to 1st South! But distance is negated with good friends like Randall & Margaret. Our love to your family from ours always regardless of distance or time. Kathryn (& Robert)

Randall was a kind and generous person. As a young investment advisor he was instrumental in guiding me and advising me with counsel that made a difference in my career and my life. I am grateful for him as a role model and a good human being.
