I lived around him as a kid in mountain shadows. He was a good guy. I hope he sees all the things up there he wants to see. He was a really good guy. Rest in Peace man

Dear Nephew Raúl: As I sit down to write this letter, my heart feels heavy knowing you are no longer with us. Even though I know you won't read these words, I feel compelled to express my thoughts and emotions, hoping they somehow reach you in the vastness of the universe. Though we did not share many moments together, my love for you has always been a gentle flame in my heart. Life and distance kept us apart, and I often thought of the family gatherings we could have had, filled with laughter and storytelling. I learned of your existence late, but each story I heard about you brought me joy. We may have shared the same blood, but it was your spirit that truly connected us. I admired the resilience you showed. To overcome challenges that life threw your way, you exhibited a strength that many could only dream of. It warms my heart to know you were embraced by an adoptive family who showered you with love, and that you had friends who stood by your side, sharing in both laughter and tears. I often dreamed of the day when we would finally connect, to share stories and bridge the gaps created by distance and time. I wish we could have shared our experiences, our dreams, and our hopes. That dream, sadly, will remain unfulfilled, but it will always reside in my heart. Your departure was too soon, dear Raúl. I believe there is a greater journey ahead of you. Until we meet again in another life, know that you are loved deeply and missed greatly. With all my love, Your Aunt, Delia Monica Silva

We met in our Sunday School class. What a handsome young man of fourteen-fifteen. Life had its ups and downs but he had resilience. That inner strength came out as he learned and was willing to discuss. He was smart and very polite. He was kind. He was self contained but respected by all. I'm glad I know where you are now, you're in good hands! Until we meet again. Say hello to Brother Pasi if you run into him. Love, Sister Pasi

Oh, such sadness. I pray his spirit will live on in the loved ones he leaves behind.
