

Robert Elmer Taylor

August 21, 1935 ~ June 29, 2025

Thinking of Bob today on his birthday, when we would usually revisit his favorites--black walnut ice cream, raspberries, and succotash. He was surrounded by photos of Dorene and loved to recall how they met in high school, and their life together in Chicago. He spoke frankly of the painful parts of life and they were very real. Still, Bob always had a place in his heart for beauty--captured as a photographer in his earlier years, later shared in text links to favorite instrument music, and always in his pride in Dorene and their posterity. Sending love to his family...may the beautiful parts live on.

- Polly Parkinson