

Robert Sidney Adair III

November 20, 1932 ~ August 21, 2023

Bob was such a nice guy. He was always willing to help others. I will miss seeing him at church. Love you Bob

Robin, my most sincere condolences to you in the passing of your father. It is always hard to lose someone close to you but I know you are a strong woman and will survive his passing. The best to you and yours and stay strong.

I know that Bob really thought I was beyond exceptional & one of his best friends, or at least that he how he made me feel EVERY time he saw me. I have a feeling that countless others felt beyond exceptional & his best friend too, because he genuinely felt that way about all of us. His wife Kay and I share a birthday, September 3rd and often he would say, only really special people are born on Sept 3rd, cause Kay was the most special & its no accident that you were both born on that day. What a compliment, right? Thank you Brother Adair for making me feel loved and extra special when in your presence. Love, Kaydee Rasmussen

How can you not love a guy who hands out candy to everyone. Bob, I'm sure the angels will love the candy too, especially since now you have joined them!

- Gil Bytheway

Bob was the real deal. He was genuine and loved his family. His passing leaves a hole in the family. But his legacy will continue. I will miss his humor and his great example. Till we meet again.
