We are so sorry for the loss of having your daughter here with you on Earth. We are praying for you for added measures of strength and peace during such a challenging and tender time.

Shanae has always had a beautiful soul, that's one of the first things I recognized about her and loved about her. I often saw in her a glorious purity, a celestial potential of the charity and love she had for others -- it was a beautiful thing to be around, almost like a noble presence that made one want to strive for higher things. I was grateful to know Shanae, and will forever be changed because of my relationship with her. The circumstances that led to her death are tragic; I still can't believe she died so young. One of my favorite things about her was knowing she was a dancer. Sadly I never saw her dance in any official productions, but she would regale me with wonderful stories of her past performances. She had a kind heart and often looked for ways to help our neighbors, ward members, and friends. I think one of the best examples of the efforts she makes to love others was how she cultivated her relationship with Winney, Shay, and Luke. I don't want to get into the whole story here, but I was blown away at how often she thought about and wanted to be with Luke, and how strongly she supported and loved Winney and Shay. I've never heard of a situation like theirs that turned out to be such a great source of love for everyone involved. I will always love Shanae. Despite our past I've always kept a place in my heart for Shanae, and will always feel indebted to God for the wonderful opportunity to love her and to know her. It is hard to see loved ones pass on, and harder still to see those loved ones pass on before their time, or so young with a whole life ahead of them. While the bitter feelings of death have their sting, I also know Shanae's medical conditions were painful and, at times, crippling. I'm grateful to know that she doesn't have to suffer from those ailments anymore, and that she can enjoy the embrace of a God that loves her perfectly. I hope that as we go through life, we may be reminded of Shanae and her goodness and be made better because of her as she looks out for us from heaven.

What a beautiful service honoring such a special girl. It has left me wanting to be more like her in charity and the way I treat others. I will always remember how sweet and cheerful Shanae was! May the Lord comfort your family during this difficult time and may you feel her close always.

Neesha, I just heard about Shanae and I am so sorry. I remember when she was first diagnosed, and it was heartbreaking to see how much she struggled over the years. I am praying for you and your family.
