What an amazing celebration of life today. I called Shawn #1 because he truly was in my eyes. I met him in Sun Valley Idaho several years ago when he went to do some Paralympic training for cross country skiing. The smile that he had on his face and the passion that he had for life was absolutely inspiring. We only spent time together in person that week, but we remained friends and communicated with each other often after that. He is an amazing gift in my life, I just I listen to the service he was the same to so many others. He is an example of what I want to be, who I want to be, and what friendship I want to have with others. May he be restful now and I cannot wait for that day when I get to see him again. I will be praying for his family and his friends. May everyone feel Gods arms wrapped around them tight during this time. And may we live the life that God wants us to live just like #1 did!!!

I loved Shawn's cheerfulness! It will be a memory that stays with me. He didn't let life's challenges sway his perspective or love of the Lord. He was very kind to me and as far as I could tell, to everyone. How I rejoice to have rubbed shoulders with one of Heavenly Father's choice sons on this earth!

I met him at singles events. Not knowing anyone and feeling very uncomfortable and reserved Shawn took notice. He made sure I felt welcomed, loved and like I was a part of the group. He was my instant friend always greeted me with a big hug and always asked how I was doing. He was very inspiring and an all around great friend was always there and had encouragement to offer freely. Thank you for continuing his support of friendship and making his friends feel like family I think it's just how he would have wanted. Sorry for your loss as I'm sure you know he is loved and missed by all that knew him

I just learned of Shawn's passing. Though we fell out of touch the past few years, he was one of my best friends. I first met him almost 25 years ago. You could tell Shawn anything without judgment. I wish I'd known what was going on with him, the past while...sending well wishes and condolences to his loved ones.
