- Amber Anderson

I loved Swan. He had been my friend for about 5 years. We did 3 music shows together. He was on my podcast I was on his. I won't ever forget him

- Jeff Lawrence

My Dear Friend, Swan, was also a GENTLEMAN. For more than a year, he promised to come meet me one day. And he was SPONTANEOUS. He texted me on a Friday night and said "Whatcha doing Sunday?" He was in NY, I live in CT. He flew 3000 miles to NY, and then drove six hours to have dinner with me and meet in person after 14 months of online friendship, talks, laughter, and phone calls into the wee hours of the morning. That dinner was a 5 hour date where we knew and agreed we would always be the best of friends and never marry. I'll tell you what though. He raised the bar for every other first date in my life. He said something to me that stuck with me. "Keep your standards. You can raise the bar, but never lower it. You're worth it all day every day, and the right guy will know it." He was ENCOURAGING. He would get up around 4 am, as I did, and text Good Morning during my worst of times, a true friend with the biggest heart. When he loved, he loved hard. He called. He supported. He made you laugh. He remembered details. He was VULNERABLE. He told me his real first name, and that his middle name was Swan after his Grandfather. We shared embarrassments and victories, story after story, he truly was an AWESOME, MODERN COWBOY, as he would often say. And he made sure you knew you were AWESOME, too. The saying: "He never did anything half-aed. He was all a, all the time. He would often say, 'The way you do anything is the way you do everything.'" - was very much Swan, indeed. He was a WRITER, an amazing one with a great following. He asked me to give him feedback on his two books or edits, if needed. will cherish his book copies forever. I wish they had been published. ■ He was a MUSICIAN. I wish I had downloaded his music videos before they disappeared. I wasn't prepared for him to leave this world so soon. Nevertheless, he shall always be in my memory and in my heart forever. I raise a glass to you my friend! You were certainly the farthest thing from an ugly duckling! Indeed! I will love you and miss you forever my dear friend. Rock the Heavens, Swan! ♥■

Such a beautiful soul who filled the world with light. His humorous and caring nature brought joy to those who knew him. To his nearest and dearest, may your hearts glow and make you smile each time you remember Swan as he was. Swan. Your music will forever play on x

It is hard to understand this right now. My last communication with him was just 2 days before ... Before. It is silly but I loved him like a brother even though we never met in person. Deepest and sincerest condolences. It is hard to make sense of it in my head. All the love to you Kennah and Brighton. Hope Penelope is okay. Taken away far too young.

Swan was my friend for 21 years. When I moved from Utah, he would fly me out just so we could hang out for the weekend. We took a great trip to the east coast and went around several states enjoying life. His parents always had room for me when I came to their house. Swan was a great friend and person. I will forever miss his friendship. I love you Swany boy

- Anna Donisi

Swan is missed! Most of my time with him was years ago (in one of his former lives, as his Mother said, he had many lives), back when we called him Tyler. He and I had many great adventures co-creating things together, such as: “Computer Repair Guys” a business, The Mather Army of Ered Duath Medieval Combat Society, and the wild and crazy D&D adventures of Wren of Endor (An Epic D&D character of his). My condolences to his family. I look forward to seeing Swan again, after this life. Not bound by time or the frailties of this existence, I expect we will all have many more great experiences with him.
