Yes, I called him Dad, because my own passed when I was six and if I chose another it would be him. He found the perfect condo for us at Menehune Shores. He helped me renovate that one and a second one there. I knew almost no carpentry but he gave me the confidence I needed to make two very beautiful homes that I was very proud of. You welcomed us into your home and hearts and I will forever treasure the times with you both. We arrived with an 11 month old and left with two more Maui Keiki Wahinis. It was always so reassuring to know you two were there if we needed you. We love you and send our condolences, and even though Tom denied it, I KNOW we will meet again, and that makes me VERY HAPPY. Aloha 'oe One fond embrace And I came back Until we meet again.

Lots of good memories of Tom and my dad, Jack Broberg. I'm glad to see he lived a long good life and never lost his sense of humor. Tom "croaked" and Jack is "D&G" (Jack used that lingo for "dead and gone.") My dad used to say he stole his boss, Tom from Lockheed to start JBs Big Boy. Good choice. Tom knew when to exit while still stinkin rich. I recently found a photo of Jack and Tom doing a little side project of prospecting -- they formed the company "Twin Buttes." I recall one story when they were driving from Glendale, CA to Salt Lake City -- driving my dad's big Lincoln Continental -- Tom fell asleep driving, the car hitched up on the center divider and rode along the rail until it woke them both up. I wonder if they found the humor in that.
