

David Roland Tschaggeny

August 14, 1941 ~ February 22, 2025

David Roland Tschaggeny completed his earthly journey on February 22, 2025, leaving behind a legacy of unwavering devotion to his family. Born on August 14, 1941, to Karl Robert Tschaggeny and Eva Dagmar Segerstedt, David was the fifth of seven children. His parents, immigrants from Switzerland and Sweden, brought their faith in The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints with them, and David carried the spirit of their sacrifices and resilience throughout his life. David's immigrant roots shaped his character—his life was defined by a relentless work ethic, an unyielding determination to overcome adversity, and a deep love for his family. He was a man of great courage, always striving to build a better future for those he loved. His heart was forever devoted to his wife, Charlene, whom he married in the Idaho Falls Temple in 1974.

David spent his life working with family, dedicating his career to the family business, Metals Manufacturing. There he enjoyed working alongside his Father creating chandeliers, metal railings, and various other architectural metalworks. He worked tirelessly until his health no longer allowed. Among his many other accomplishments, he was especially proud of his contributions to the construction of Solitude Ski Resort, where he played a significant role in building the Round House.

Known for his generosity, David was always ready to lend a helping hand, being particularly charitable to those facing hardships. He taught his children through both words and actions the importance of compassion.

A devoted member of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, David's faith was reflected in his everyday kindness, service, and integrity. David's children often found him at the kitchen table reading his scriptures in deep thought. Perhaps David's proudest achievements was seeing his children serve missions, marry in the temple, and have children of their own. David will be especially remembered for his vibrant spirit, fierce loyalty, and enduring generosity. He leaves behind a lasting legacy of love, work ethic, and service that will continue to inspire all who knew him, especially his beloved family.

David is survived by his loyal wife, Charlene, and their children Charles (Thea), Nathan (Angela), Karin, Nadine (Jared), and Boyd (Ellie). He is also survived by his sons from his first marriage, David and Robert. David is also survived by his cherished grandchildren: Harrison, Audrey, Paige, Heidi-Louise, Emma-Linnea, Jack, Claire, and Lars, as well as three beloved siblings. David built a legacy of charity, work ethic, and service. His legacy will live on in the hearts of all who knew him.
