In her youth Donna was taught the gospel of Jesus Christ by her parents, she never doubted its truthfulness. Donna has a strong testimony of the Savior. Throughout her life, she was an active member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Donna served in various callings, such as Junior Sunday School President, Primary President, and as the Young Women's President as her health would allow.

Donna grew up and lived her entire life on the same acreage. She loved living on the property, landscaping it with trees and shrubs that allowed for open spaces for her children and grandchild to play. She loved watching the wildlife that entered her yard in every season.

Donna loved and enjoyed the company of animals, as a child, her best friend was a pony named Laddie. Donna enjoyed being with her father and checking on his prize cattle. She especially loved dogs, and enjoyed their company throughout her life.

Donna was an excellent student. She excelled in learning and achieved the highest grades at Holladay Elementary School, Olympus Junior High, Granite High School. At the University of Utah (where she majored in History and English) she graduated with honors. Later, she attended Graduate School at BYU. Donna never got less than an A in any class.

In 1950, she met the love of her life, Duncan J. Williamson, at the time he was a senior and she was beginning her freshman year at the University of Utah. Their friendship and love for each other grew. That Christmas Donna asked for skis so she could go skiing with Duncan.

Donna insisted that she would only marry a returned missionary and waited patiently while Duncan served a full time mission in the Netherlands and in Belgium for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Duncan was home from his mission for a week when he was drafted to serve in the Korean War. During this long five year wait Donna and Duncan wrote to each other every day. They were married for time and all eternity by President David O. McKay on June 17, 1955, in the Salt Lake Temple.

Donna and Duncan loved being in nature. She enjoyed skiing, snowshoeing, picnicking, and camping with her husband and children. She supported Duncan in his calling as a Scoutmaster for many years even though she knew that she would spend a lot of time by herself.
