

Reagan Tolboe

July 5, 1974 ~ January 10, 2022

Reagan Michelle Tolboe passed away on Tuesday, January 10th from a brain aneurysm. She was the daughter of Diane Stewart and Michael Tolboe, born on July 5th, 1974, in Provo, Utah. She was raised in Salt Lake City – and deeply rooted in her community. Reagan studied Theatre and Communications, graduating from Westminster, but also attending Connecticut College and the University of Utah.

Reagan's passions emerged early in her life: dancing, acting, riding horses, and dressing up.

She loved Theatre and Cinema
She loved Ballet
She loved Rowland Hall
She loved Pi Beta Phi
She loved Jimmy Buffet
She loved Lake Powell
She loved New York City

Reagan admired a good theater character – villain or hero and she always, always rooted for the underdog. She was the embodiment of dramatic flair. Reagan was a dedicated patron of the theatre, fashion, and the arts. She immersed herself in pop culture and read, listened, and followed artists with the ardor of a true fan.

She lived and celebrated with intensity – following having an aneurysm removed in 2012, she turned the anniversary of her brain surgery into 'Brain Day' celebrating every year her joie de vivre surrounded by friends. Having a meal out with Reagan was an event – preferably at an oyster bar or a Bobby Flay restaurant. Like with her other interests, she became a culinary expert. Reagan was a die-hard Jazz fan and created a veritable shrine in her bedroom growing up to John Stockton. When Reagan decided she liked something – she backed it one hundred percent.

She was fiercely loyal to her family and friends and loved to adopt people and children into her life. She had special names and relationships with children and a devoted set of small people she influenced. She was the first to reach her arms out to a new baby. She identified strongly with her Tolboe family often reminiscing about time with her Aunts Jan and JoAnne.

Reagan held strong beliefs about advancing the arts, civil rights, social action, preserving the environment, human rights, and politics. She certainly made her voice heard and stood behind those words with actions. She was a community activist and attended rallies, raised funds, and fought for the causes she believed in. She was involved with many non-profits and served in their endeavors.

Reagan leaves behind a large loving family: Her mother, Diane Stewart, Her father Mike and his wife, Kathy Tolboe. She is survived by her three brothers: Clifton Tolboe, Hank and Hardy Stewart, and her precious niece Eleanor “EK”. Reagan also leaves behind an extended family of stepsiblings, their spouses and children including Samantha Stewart, Jaime Moessing, Joshua Stewart, Spencer Stewart, Andy Stewart, Scott Carroll, and Angie Carroll.

As we say goodbye to Reagan, we like to think of her strolling past Bethesda Fountain in a hat, heels, wearing red lipstick and tossing a wink over her shoulder.

A private family service will be held on Monday at 5pm, friends are invited via zoom at the provided link.

In lieu of flowers please donate to your favorite arts organization in Utah to honor Reagan.
