

Scott Bradley Black

December 29, 1969 ~ January 4, 2025

From dishwasher to bartender to Salon owner, Scott had an incredibly interesting and successful life. Scott loved skiing, running (he finished twice in the Wasatch 100 mile endurance race and once in the Havelina 100 endurance race), hiking and his motorcycle . He loved music, especially U2 and his guitars. He enjoyed political, philosophical and scientific banter but most of all he loved his family and friends and was one of the most generous people you would ever meet.

Scott, we will miss you terribly and this world will not be as bright without you.

There will be a celebration of Scott's life in Park City in the springtime. In lieu of flowers simply give someone you love a big hug.

Scott is survived by his wife Melissa Black, his stepchildren Annelies Chapman and Christian Young, his parents, Larry and Peggy Black, his sister Michelle Black, his nephew TJ Burrow, his niece Heather Black, his grandchildren, Ella Grace Chapman, Emma Chapman, Sage Young and Noah Young as well as several other nieces and nephews.
